

Jeffrey Hunter

BIOGRAPHY

The first captain of the Enterprise was played by an actor born Henry McKinnies, Jr., November 25, 1925 in New Orleans. The son of an engineer, he spent most of his early life in Milwaukee. While in high school, he appeared in radio productions and summer stock. He entered the Navy from 1945-46, then went to UCLA, where he acted in a number of plays. A 20th Century Fox talent scout spotted him and signed him to an exclusive contract. After a number of leading roles in films, he became most famous as Jesus in Nicholas Ray's King of Kings (1961).

He enjoyed working in television, and put together his own production company to produce a series called Temple Houston (1964), which failed to gain an audience. His first wife was actress Barbara Rush, whom he married in 1950. They separated in 1955.

In 1969 an accident on a film set in Spain put an end to his life. He was knocked down when an explosion went off prematurely, and returned to the U.S. suffering from dizzy spells. He died while undergoing brain surgery at the age of 43.
