
THE HOUSE THAT'S REALLY A HOME

The Jeff Hunters' new home is high on a wooded hillside . . . with a splendid view of Hollywood . . . and lots of room in the backyard for baby Chris to run and jump and play to his heart's content . . .

Nineteen-month-old Chris and his Mommy, Barbara Rush, make Dad their horsey for the afternoon. Chris is a blond child, with lots of freckles.

Editor's Note: The thing everybody thought would never happen to the Jeff Hunter-Barbara Rush marriage has happened as we go to press. They have split up--temporarily--we hope.

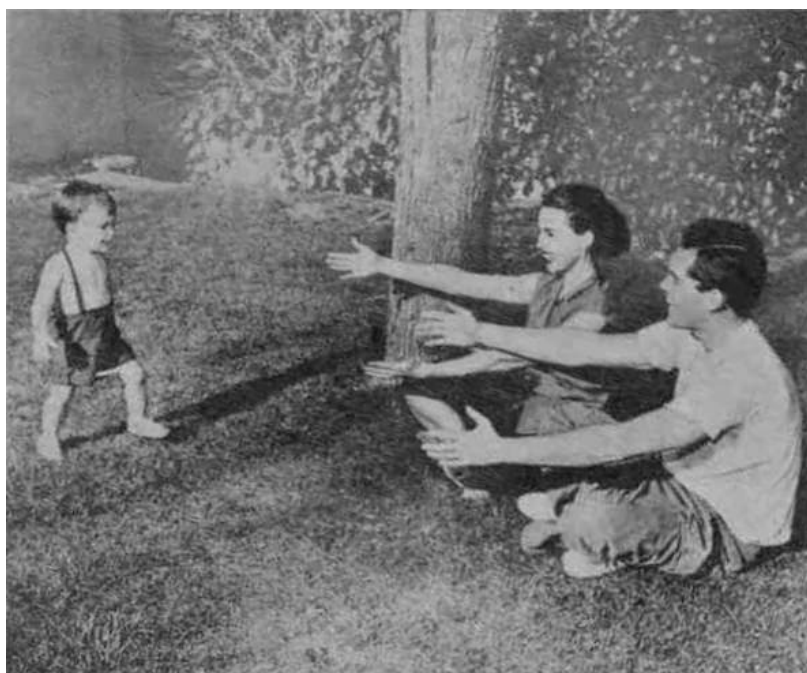

“And a-waay and up we go!” cries Jeff as he and Barb play with Chris. Under contract to 20th, Jeff’s in their “White Feathers.”

Babies are always exploring things, and Chris is no exception, as he investigates Mom. See her in UI's "Black Shield of Falworth."

Jeff and Barb, one of Hollywood's happiest young marrieds, spend as much time at home with their Chris as they can.

“Come to Mamma, come to Poppa, do . . .” and Chris races toward his attractive young parents. Barb gets co-star billing in UI’s “Magnificent Obsession.”

Picture of a happy family. When Barb won UI’s most promising star performer award, Jeff was so proud of her!
