

- The handsome six-foot-one, 180-pound bruiser you see above is 20th-Century Fox's latest investment in male talent. Jeffrey Hunter's been on that studio's list ever since a talent scout spotted him, three years ago, in the role of Chris in the University of California production of the play "All My Sons." Jeff was studying radio at the time, but the talent scout convinced him that he'd like a movie screen better than the airwaves. You'll be seeing Jeff soon in Sailor of the King.